VARSITY WINS FROM QUEEN'S IN FAST GAME

First of the Inter-Collegiate Games.

SCORE: 7—1.

Varsity Shows Some Good Playing.

On Saturday afternoon the Varsity hockey squad won a decisive victory in the Intercollegiate Series, when they defeated Queen's by a score of 7-1. Previously the Varsity intermediates had disposed of the strong Milton team by a score of 2-1, and the numerous rooters who attended the game were therefore in fine fettle.

The game was fast throughout, Varsity doing most of the attacking. The Presbyterians did not seem to be able to get going until the second period, when they showed to best advantage, and Smith scored the only goal of this period for them.

For Varsity, Carson and Sullivan starred, the combination of the forwards being a noticeable feature, and resulting in several of the scores being made.

Play started off at a fast clip, Queen's and Varsity alternating in rushes. After a few minutes' play, Carson secured at mid-ice and worked his way through Queen's defence to score the first goal. Varsity quickly added another when Westman carried the puck behind the nets and passed out to Sullivan, the latter having little difficulty in beating McNeill. The period ended with Varsity leading, 3-0.

In the second period, Queen's bucked up considerably and kept the play for the most part in the vicinity of Varsity's nets. Finally, on a combination play by Smith and Campbell, the former scored from close in, the period finishing with the score 3-1 in favor of Varsity.

The third period saw Varsity almost entirely on the aggressive, but poor shooting on the part of the forwards spoiled several good chances.

Finally, however, after a fusillade of shots on the Queen's nets, succeeded in adding another when Carson shot and Ramsay batted in the rebound. From then on, Varsity were easy winners, and their forwards displayer some very spectacular stickhandling, Wright, Sullivan and Evans each scoring. The final score was 7-1 for Varsity.

The teams lined up as follows:

Varsity		Queen's
Langtry	Goal	McNeill
Ramsay	Defence	Fahey
Brown	Defence	McKelvey
Sullivan	Centre	Stewart
Wright	L. Wing	Gibson
Carson	R. Wing	Campbell
Evans	Sub	Smith
Westman	Sub	Woodruff

Referee—Bill Box, Kitchener.

LADIES GIVE TEA AT HALL

Mrs. J. A. Nicholson and Mrs. H. F. Armstrong hold Treat For Students.

Any one of the forty students who thoroughly enjoyed themselves yesterday afternoon will certainly affirm that McGill is not destitute of warmly interested professors outside of lecture hours. In the prettily decorated reading room of Strathcona Hall, Mrs. J. A. Nicholson and Mrs. H. F. Armstrong entertained at afternoon tea for university students, assisted by Mrs. Ira MacKay and Mrs. Turner. The tables were neatly arranged, and with their white doilies and quaint candlestick, gave the right tone to the occasion with a decidedly homelike appearance.

The chairs were placed around the open fireplace, in which a cheery fire was brightly burning, while the hospitality of the hostesses and professors gave no one an opportunity to enjoy anything but an extremely enjoyable time throughout the afternoon.

The several piano solos very kindly given by Miss Dorothy Armstrong, a recent graduate of the McGill Conservatorium of Music, were much appreciated, as were also the songs of other ladies present.

INTERESTING MEETING FOR THE CERCLE

Societe Francaise Will Be Entertained Thursday.

VARIED PROGRAMME.

Proceedings Will Be Of a Sociable Character.

The membersof the Societe Francaise of the Royal Victoria College will be entertained by the Cercle Francais this week on the evening of Thursday, February 3rd.

Ever since the inception of the two French societies some years ago it has been customary for the Cercle to extend an annual invitation to their sister-organization, a compliment which is generally returned in kind at a later date. In past years this event has been looked upon as a red-letter day "per excellence," at any rate by the members of the Cercle Francais, and, coming as it does during the latter half of the university session, it forms a fitting climax to the season's activities of the club.

In past years it was usual to introduce a formal debate as the "piece de resistance" of the entertainment. It was fit, however, that a break with traditional usage would be more welcome in this instance, as the proceedings tended towards a lack of what the French would call "esprit" or "verve" on such occasions, while it appeared rather as if the guests were expected to help entertain their hosts by taking part in the debate. In consequence, this item has been dispensed with on Thursday night's programme, and the proceedings will be of a more varied, and, it is hoped, of a more sociable nature.

It was originally the intention to hold this joint meeting at an earlier date, but it was found that a change would have to be made to February 3rd on account of the inadvisability of a clash with other activities. All members who intend to be present at this most important and enjoyable meeting on Thursday are advised to get into communication with the secretary of the Cercle at the Arts Building as soon as possible, as it behooves the executive to make sure that a sufficient number will be present to provide partners for the guests.

SKI CLUB ANNUAL MEET.

Entries for the annual Inter-Faculty Meet must be entered on the lists posted in the Arts, Medicine and Science Buildings, or the McGill Union. All competitors must be members of the Ski Club and must have been physically examined this session.

NEWS BOARD.

A meeting of the "Daily" News Board has been called for Tuesday at one p.m.

FRENCH CLASS WILL PRESENT "LA CAGNOTTE"

Five-Act Comedy Now Well Under Way.

PERFORMANCE FEB. 19.

Will Be Given Under the Direct Auspices of the University.

The muse of the drama, whose face has been averted from us for so long, appears to have taken a sudden and sincere interest in McGill. For almost coincidently with the formation of the much desired Players' Club comes the announcement of the presentation of a French play to be given on Saturday, February 19th, by certain members of the Second Year French Class.

It will be remembered that towards the close of last session the members of the First Year Advanced Class, as then constituted, performed a short two-act comedy at the Royal Victoria College under the auspices of the two French Societies at McGill. Encouraged by a certain measure of success that they attained some of the actors in last year's play have formed themselves into the nucleus of a broader and more ambitious undertaking which has embraced a considerable number from the ordinary Second Year course.

Even so the secret would probably not have leaked out to the news-thirsty ears of the public for some time if some of the members of Arts '23 had not been overheard giving expression to such phrases as "Nom d'un nom" and "Ah, Saprelotte" on occasions of great emotional stress a proceeding so out of keeping with their usually demur sophomoric behaviour as to arouse the curiosity of their class mates. Trusted members of the class executive have even been observed throwing their arms about and shaking their fists in true dramatic fashion in odd corners of the labyrinthine passages of the Arts Building, where they thought themselves safe from prying eyes.

It would appear that the members of the committee are as yet unwilling to make public any details other than the bare announcement of the performance as they feel that the undertaking is an ambitious one, consisting as it does of a five-act comedy written by the well-known French playwright Labiche with the assistance of his coadputor, M. Delacour. The cast is also a large one, and will comprise some fifteen personages, both men and women. Further announcements will doubtless appear in these columns in the course of the next week or so.

An announcement appearing recently in a local newspaper, which stated that the French play in question would be given under the auspices of the new Players' Club, is incorrect. "La Cagnotte," which is the name of the play, will be given

SEAT SALE FOR VARSITY MATCH

Tickets at Union Monday 9.30 till Thursday 5.00.

Students wishing to secure reserved seats for the hockey match with Varsity, which will take place on the evening of Saturday, February 3rd, may get same from the hall porter at the Union, from Monday, January 31st, at 9.30 a.m., until Thursday, February 3rd, at 5 p.m., after which hour they may only be had at the office of the Mount Royal Arena. The prices of these tickets are as follows: Boxes and promenade seats, $1.25; reserved seats, 75c. Unreserved seats will not be sold at the Union.

It is hoped that a large number of students will take this opportunity of seeing their Senior team in action. The game is sure to be an interesting fixture, and the championship for the year will practically be decided in it. For if Varsity defeat up on our own ice, they can be counted to do it again in Toronto. If we beat them, we have a good chance to repeat the operation in the return game. The support afforded the team in its City League matches has not been very good, but doubtless the importance of this Intercollegiate game will bring out a large body of both men and women students.

THE PARTING OF THE WAYS

The task of those entrusted with the guidance of a great university must, at the present time, be an extremely onerous one. For they are apparently confronted just now with the very gravest of problems. Briefly enunciated, the question is this: whether the university, which has hitherto been regarded as a centre of higher learning and a dispenser of culture, is to continue in this capacity, or is to be made into a diverting toy for the man in the street, which which appears to be the present-day tendency.

Besides the illusive glamour of novelty the second alternative gains adherents by other and more compelling means. For so many universities are to a great extent dependent on the generosity of the citizen body for their very existence, that they must of necessity be in some degree subservient to the whims and fancies of the many, who afford them this indispensible support. This is the tragedy of the position of the modern university, which McGill is compelled to share along with the rest.

Instead of acting as a compelling centre of national thought unhampered by any debasing influences, the university of to-day is forced into a false position, where she must bow down at the nod of the man with the money-bags, while at the same time pretending to a lofty idealism and a spirit of Culture with a capital C.

Apparently no one considers the possibility of pursuing a middle course between the two alternatives. The old-fashioned type of university is being violently, though none the less inevitably cast into the discard, while its place is being taken by the so-called "popular" university, where thousands upon thousands of the youth of the nation are gathered promiscuously together for instruction in everything from Classics to Cooking and Swine-husbandry. This applies especially to certain of the American universities.

It is apparently sufficient for a large enough number of people to wail assiduously for instruction in the latest popular fad. The "vox plebis" is listened to with the greatest possible deference, and yet another "freak" course is added to an overburdened curriculum. The entrance requirements are lowered still further, and the dry-rot of decentralization eats deeper into the heart of the university, whose individuality is swamped by a clamoring wave of humanity.

We may thank our Fates that McGill has not yet definitely cast in her lot with the ultra-modernists. But she has come to the parting of the ways. If for financial reasons she must in some measure be subject to dictation from the civic world outside the gates let it at least be on a "give and take" basis. The merchant would justly resent interference with the management of his counting-house, and surely the university has a right to the guidance of its own internal policy. If the need for the eternal dollar prevents the modern university from being wholly under the guidance of men of culture, let us at McGill at least see to it that our relationship with the outer world is one of interdependence and not of subordination.

JUNIOR "A" TEAM WINS VICTORY

In the scheduled Junior City League game at Molson Hall on Saturday night the McGill Junior "A" beat the Westmount Y.M.C.A. in a very fast game. The Westmount team had the better of the game until towards the end, when a spectacular shot by Bryce tied the score. The final victory came with a well-placed shot by Silver in the last ten seconds of the game.

Bryce, Silver and Rorke played a good game for the winners and Harrison and Watson for the losers.

The line-up was as follows:

These very important and well-known events will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week in the big hall of the Union. They will be open to the student body at large, and a large attendance is expected. A merely nominal admission fee will be exacted and can be paid at the door as one goes in. The charge on Tuesday (eliminations) will be twenty-five cents, and that for the finals on Wednesday will be thirty-five cents. The contests on both nights will begin at 8.15 o'clock sharp. In order that the participants may exercise their powers unhandicapped, no smoking will be allowed during the progress of the bouts. It is hoped that everyone will pay attention to this regulation, for it is difficult for anyone to box, wrestle or fence when the air which he breathes is heavy-laden with clouds of cigarette or pipe smoke.

These bouts should indeed prove a great drawing card to the sporting element at McGill. The winners of them will be the champions of McGill in the three different departments,—boxing, wrestling and fencing. Added to this is the fact that the successful ones will probably constitute the McGill team in the Intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms which will take place in Montreal towards the end of February. One says "probably" advisedly, for it often happens that men who lose in the eliminations improve in form before the Assault-at-Arms. However, let it be said that those who win out in these contests stand a very good chance of being included in the Intercollegiate team. The real team will not be announced until a week before the big event.

With this fact before them, the contestants will no doubt provide an exhibition of rivalry and skill that will be a pleasure and a delight to watch. One can safely say that the winners will not gain their laurels without a struggle; the bouts will be fights to the finish.

COMMERCE '23 WIN FROM SCIENCE '24

Commerce Now Leads in Interfaculty League.

In a somewhat slow and uninteresting game Commerce '23 gained the lead in the Inter-Faculty League by defeating Science '24 by the score of 2 to 0. Though greatly weakened by the loss of three "Xmas Graduates," Science put up an exhibition that might have defeated their opponents, but for the fine display of Brewer, the Commerce goalkeeper.

For the winners Connor and Martin were good. For the losers Luxton and Williamson were the best; the former showed up particularly well, his backchecking being a feature of the game. Unfortunately rough work by Orr and retaliation by Williamson marred the game.

In the first period the game was very even, both sides playing well. In nineteen minutes Connor slapped in a rebound off Rochester's stick and scored for Commerce. In the final period the play was also very even, with Science a little the better. A few minutes before the end, however, Martin shot, and the puck wobbled round Rochester's stick for Commerce's second goal. This goal seemed to take the heart out of the Science attack, and game dragged along till the whistle blew. Towards the end both sides seemed tired, and their play suffered as a result.

The game proved a blow to the hopes of Science '24. Commerce, though now ahead, have two difficult games to play against Arts '23 and Med. '23. Law '21-'22 is an unknown quantity, as they have not yet played any inter-faculty games. Dents '23 are hopelessly out of it, and will have hard work to prevent their team finishing last.

Line-up follows:—

"A" SQUADRON ENJOY TRIP TO ST. JOHNS

Progress in Equitation Was Shown.

JUMPING TRAINING.

Defeat Dragoons in Impromptu Hockey Match.

On Saturday "A" Squadron, McGill C.O.T.C., left for St. Johns, Que., by the 8.05 train from Bonaventure Station. They were in charge of Lieut. D. F. Cantley, A.-O.C. "A" Squadron, and were accompanied by Lieut. R. S. O'Meara. Capt. D. H. Macfarlane, M.C., joined the detachment at St. Johns on Sunday morning. Forty-five other ranks turned out for this second week-end of intensive cavalry training, and showed marked progress, the smartness of the men attracting favorable comment from their instructors.

On arrival, the men were dismissed to their quarters. Too much cannot be said in praise of the accommodation and treatment accorded both the officers and men of the Squadron by the R.C.D. Those in charge of the Dragoons are entering whole-heartedly into this scheme of intensive training, and any future success of this section of the C.O.T.C. must be attributed to their efficient co-operation.

The men followed a similar syllabus of training to that used on the occasion of their last visit, going first to the Riding School. They showed decided progress in the art of equitation, and were sufficiently advanced to execute simple formations and even attempt a small jump. Some of the men are proficient horsemen, but considerable amusement was afforded by the efforts of a chosen few to control their fiery steeds and guide them back to their places in the ranks. No serious casualties were reported, however, and both Q.M.S.I. Dowdell and Sergt.-Instr. King of the R.C.D. expressed themselves well satisfied with the progress made.

Stable management followed the rides on both days, and on Saturday afternoon a comprehensive lecture on "Protection While at Rest," delivered by Bt.-Major and Adjutant H. Stethem, R.C.D., occupied the attention of the men. Sword drill followed the lecture, being combined with dismounted Squadron Drill. The various movements were quickly mastered by the several troops, who had for the first time an opportunity of seeing the flexibility of a squadron at drill.

In the evening a hockey practice was held on the rink under B.S.M. Johnston, and a strong line-up was selected. The following day the usual routine was followed, including a lecture on "Protection on the March," by Lieut. Drury, R.C.D. A hockey match was played against the Dragoons, which the C.O.T.C. won by 4 goals to 2. Details are given elsewhere. After tea, the squadron returned with its members somewhat saddle-sore but still energetic, as was shown by numerous rooters' songs and the McGill yell.

MED. '23 DEFEAT DENT. '23 BADLY

One Sided Contest With Score 10—2.

In a one-sided contest on the Campus Rink, Saturday afternoon, Med. '23 won from Dent. '23 by the large score of 10—2. From the start, the Third Year Meds. secured the lead and maintained it until the final whistle. The victory was due largely to the stonewall defence of the winners and to the combination of the forwards. In the final period, Dent. '23 managed to score twice, thus sparing the ignominy of a whitewash.

The winning team showed a brand of hockey which is unusual in Class Hockey. The deence offered by McElligot and Ackman was hard to beat. Lawson was perhaps the most effective of the forwards. Besides being responsible for two goals, he showed a fine exhibition of ackb-checking. Mair and Parlow also played a consistent game. For the losers, Brown was the shining light, although Lane and Mills worked hard.

The game was handled by "Boo" Anderson, whose rulings were most impartia. The game was cealn throughout, only one penalty resulting.

The teams lined up as follows:

Med. '23.		Dent. '23.
Cook	Goal	McNally
McElligot	Defense	Lane
Ackman	"	Donegan
Mair	Forward	Mills
Lawson	"	Woodman
Parlow	"	Martin
Campbell	Subs	Brown
Hamilton	"	McCrae
Laster	"	Cawer

R.V.C. SENIORS GAIN VICTORY FROM SOPHS.

First of Inter-Class Series Refereed by "Shag."

SCORE WAS 10—0.

Sophomores Were Outplayed During Whole Game.

The first of the inter-class hockey matches was played Saturday morning between the Fourth and Second Years, with Mr. Shaughnessy as referee. It was expected that the Seniors would win an overwhelming victory, but in spite of the absence of their captain the Sophomores put up a good fight.

The play was chiefly at the Sophomore end of the ice, and all but two of the goals were put in on the rebound. Throughout the game it was noticeable that many of the players batted the puck.

Miss Doris Campbell scored 5 goals. Miss Gladys Mills, 3, and Miss McKenzi, 2. Miss Campbell was the outstanding player, handling her stick well and bringing the puck swiftly up the ice, following in after shooting to catch the rebound. Miss Mills and Miss Cameron also played a good game, and, on the whole, the Senior team showed good combination. During the first period the Seniors were short one player.

The Sophomores scored no goals, and their game was purely defensive. Miss Kerr countered her opponents' shots very effectively and was heartily applauded by the onlookers. Miss Slack, on defence, cleared well, playing a unique but effective game. During the first two periods the defence were too close to the goaler. The team showed improvement, though combination was lacking.

The line-up was as follows:

4th Year		2nd Year
K. Godwin	Goal	L. Kerr
K. Cameron	Defence	Z. Slack
D. Dart	Defence	M. Peck
G. Mills	R. Wing	L. Evans
S. McKenzie	L. Wing	E. D. Campbell

The late Dr. Gray was a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, and took postgraduate courses there, in London and in Glasgaw. For a time he practised in Newfoundland, then for a few years in St. Mary's and Parkhill, Ont., and finally in 1900 moved to Acton, where he remained. An energetic citizen, he was chairman of the local committee which carried to completion the erection of a soldiers' monument unveiled at Acton on Armistice Day, 1920. His wife, one son and one daughter survive.

On January 9, a window in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Westmount, in memory of the late Sergt. Paul S. Clark, Arts '15, of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, was unveiled and dedicated. One of those who unveiled the window was Major W. C. Nicholson, D.S.O., Arts '13, Law '20, a comrade of Sergt. Clark, while Dr. J. A. Nicholson, Arts '87, delivered the dedicatory address. The window was erected by the chapter of the Daughters of the Empire which bears Sergeant Clark's name.

Ralph Skelton, Sci. '12, has the sympathy of graduates in the death at Toronto, on January 19, of his wife, formerly Miss Marjorie A. Brownfield.

Dr. T. F. Robertson, Med. '91, has been elected chairman of the Public School Board of Brockville, Ont., a post which Rev. C. E. Jeakins, Arts '01, has been elected to occupy in Brantford, Ont.

Maurice Versailles, Law '20, has been admitted to the practice of law in the Province of Quebec.

On leaving Toronto for California, where he will spend some time in search of recuperation, Rev. John D. Morrow, the former Intercollegiate sprinter, was presented with a purse by his congregation of Dale Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Otto Demuth, M.C., Med. '15, has located in Vancouver, B.C., on his return from overseas, where he served with the 58th Division, B.E.F.

Dan McLachlan, past student, of Arnprior, Ont., has been re-elected president of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, and has been elected vice-president of the Canadian Forestry Association.

McGILL WHITES LOSE FIRST GAME

Aggies Defeat Them in City League Indoor Baseball Series.

McGill Whites lost their first game in the City League Indoor Baseball series last Saturday, when they were the guests of Macdonald College. The "Aggies" carried off the honors by a score of 24 to 22, but the McGill players, although defeated, were by no means outclassed.

Entering the last half of the ninth inning with a six-run lead, the McGill team was unable to hold their advantage, and lost when the Macdonald students staged a terrific last-minute rally. Much enthusiasm was shown throughout, and, although losing a very hard game, everyone showed a very keen sporting spirit which was only equalled by the Macdonald team.

The visitors were handicapped by the absence of Wilson, their usual pitcher, but considerable unexpected batting strength was developed. Chamberlain and Gauthier, in particular, batted well, the latter getting seven safe hits out of eight trips to the plate.

Both sides fielded well, Ted Clarke for McGill in particular turning in a very fine performance.

After the game the Macdonald students upheld their high reputation for hospitality, a tea and dance being provided for the visitors, at which everyone had a splendid time. As the game was played in the small gym. the players were somewhat handicapped, and the suggestion was made that future fixtures be played in the Girls' Gym., which is large and commodious and ideal in every way.

The line-up was af follows:—

Macdonald College.

BIG BASKETBALL GAME SATURDAY

Varsity Team Will Play McGill in Highlanders' Armory.

The McGill Intercollegiate Basketball Team will have a second chance to show what they can do when they will meet the Varsity quintette here in the Highlanders' Armory on Bleury Street, on Saturday afternoon, February 5th. Last Tuesday they were successful in defeating the Queen's team on their home floor, and should be able to turn the trick on the Toronto outfit next Saturday. Unfortunately, we have not is yet received any report as to the outcome of the Queen's-Varsity fixture the day before yesterday. However, as far as the dope reads, McGill's chances for landing this Intercollegiate championship are about as rosy as possible.

Tickets for the game at fifty cents each will be placed on sale with the hall porter at the Union this, Monday, morning, January 31st, at 9.30 a.m. The match is scheduled to begin at 3.30 p.m. sharp.

LACHINE WAS DEFEATED BY SECOND TEAM

Intermediates Won Victory on Saturday.

FAST, CLEAN GAME.

Good Exhibition of Hockey Was Well Attended.

A large crowd witnessed the McGill Intermediate Team defeat the Lachine Racing and Canoe Club in a splendid exhibition of hockey at the Victoria Rink on Saturday afternoon. The score stood at 3 to 2 in favor of the Red and White boys, and a fast clean game was maintained throughout the two periods. Owing to the similarity of the sweaters of the two aggregations it was rather difficult at times to distinguish what team the players were on.

The game opened with Lachine forcing the play, and Corcoran scored after seven minutes. McGill then put forth a greater effort and Lachine had to take the offensive. After another seven minutes Rose evened the tally, and shortly afterwards Kent shot the puck into goal. At half-time the score read 2 to 1 in McGill's favor.

The second half was none the less interesting. The Lachine boys tried their 'hardest, and Corcoran netted another point. From then on, however, McGill played very well, and kept on the offensive till the end of the game. Rose netted another goal, which was the last score of the game. The Lachine players were apparently tired, and their playing became very ragged. At one time one Lachine man was playing the whole McGill team, while his confreres were all at their end of the rink. When the gong sounded the score stood at 3 to 2.

Stenson, Ross and Kent starred for McGill. Stenson did great work as goalkeeper, stopping many shots that looked like sure goals. Ross and Kent, the two scorers of the Collegians, played a very clean game. Corcoran and W. Mill were the best from the boating team.

The line-up was as follows :—

McGill.		Lachine.

C.O.T.C. DEFEAT DRAGOONS

4-2 Victory Well Earned by Student Soldiers.

On Sunday last the Royal Canadian Dragoons went down to defeat before the stellar hockey team of "A" Squadron, McGill C.O.T.C., by four goals to two. The game was closely contested. The O.T.C. scored twice in the first period, while the Dragoons got in one tally between the two of their opponents'. The play was mostly in the students' ice, the four-man combination of the troopers being met by a rigid defence. In the second period the Dragoons secured a second goal off a rebound, which again tied the score. Bulgin made a brilliant rush and scored a third for the students, while the rest of the period was played as three-man defence. In the last period, Cantley and Bulgin and Lanctot made a brilliant rush, and Cantley scored. Lanctot deserves high praise for his work. He back checks and pokes with judgment. Cantley was at his usual high level of efficiency while Ferguson did well in goal. Mellon and Windatt, on defence, proved hard to stop. The Dragoons had a fast line and good combination, but were weak on shooting. Lieut. Drury stopped many nasty shots in goal.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

C.O.T.C.	Position	Dragoons
Ferguson	Goal	Lieut. Drury
Bulgin	Defence	Tr. Mercier
Windatt	Defence	Tr. Rice
Mellon	Forward	Tr. Dunaford
Lanctot	Forward	Tr. McKerral

NOT ENOUGH CANADIANS AT OXFORD

Dean R. W. Lee Suggests Entrance be Made Easier.

WRITES "TIMES."

Correspondents From Oxford and Cambridge Answer.

Dr. R. W. Lee, Dean of the Faculty of Law, who is at present on a year's leave of absence to England, where he is filling the post of Professor of Roman-Dutch Law at Oxford University, has been writing to the London "Times" suggesting that Oxford and Cambridge should do more to admit Dominion students, and charging that an impression exists in Canada that entry is not made easy for them.

In this connection, replies have been published in the "Times'" correspondence columns from a Cambridge and an Oxford correspondent, which we reproduce herewith.

The Oxford correspondent writes:

"The statement in Dr. Lee's letter will certainly cause surprise at Oxford. ver since the foundation of the Rhodes scholarships, and, indeed, before that, students from the Dominions have been welcomed at Oxford and have come in ever-increasing numbers. Men from all the Dominions and from Canada in particular, have taken a very high place in the intellectual life of the university, as well as in its games and social activities; and there has never been any desire to exclude them.

"Of course, there are limits to the number of undergraduates whom colleges can admit, and in selecting their freshmen for any given year the colleges have to consider the due proportions between one class of student and another. The overseas students themselves would be the first to depreciate any undue accumulation of their number in any one college, as they would thereby lose one of the great advantages of their residence here—the corporate life with other undergraduates.

"Since the war the pressure of applicants of all kinds has been enormous, but it is a sufficient answer to Dr. Lee that, in spite of this pressure, the colleges have readily agreed during the last two years to accept an increased number of Rhodes scholars to make up for the elections which did not take place during the war."

The Cambridge correspondent writes:

"We do not adequately inform the universities of our empire what facilities there are for joining the university. Oxford is in a better case, for it has a large endowment for subsidizing colonial students during their residence in the university.

"At the present time Cambridge has some 29 students from Canada and Newfoundland. With the exception of Oxford, where, as I have pointed out, many students are subsidized, this number almost equals that of the Canadian students in the rest of the universities of our islands."

CENTRALS DEFEAT INTERMEDIATES

McGill Team Lost to Central Y.M.C.A. in Basketball on Saturday.

The Intermediate Basketball Team were defeated on Saturday night by the Central "Y" Intermediates, to the tune of 25 to 14. The game was fast from start to finish, and both teams played hard. For McGill, Turpel made the most points and also showed some good play. Blumenstein, although he made no score, nevertheless was always on his man, and his work deserves mention. For Central "Y," Wolter, Paquette and Corriveau showed up to advantage.

There were a number of rooters present, but, regrettably, they were all for the Central "Y" team.

The game started late, but fast. Turpel opened the scoring with a free goal for McGill. The play continued to be enthusiastic throughout the period, which ended with the score as follows: Central "Y," 16; Intermediates, 7.

The last period was much the same as the first, fast and furious. The Central men showed good combination. Although the Intermediates rallied towards the last, the "Y" had too much lead, and the game ended with the score 25-14 in favor of Central "Y."

The teams lined up as follows:

McGill (14)		Central "Y" (25)
Fcharfe (2)	Forward	Paquette (6)
Turpel (6)	Forward	Corriveau (6)
Murray (2)	Centre	Wolter (9)
Hilton (4)	Guard	Pinck (2)
Blumenstein	Guard	Clelland (2)
Starke	Sub.	King

SHAWBRIDGE VISITED BY COMPANY "B"

Pleasant Time Enjoyed By All.

PROFITABLE WORK.

Boys' Farm Staff Hospitable Hosts.

At nine o'clock on Saturday morning, thirty-six members of "B" Company of the C.O.T.C. entrained for Shawbridge, little knowing what they were in for. On arriving at the Boys' Farm, their first acquaintance was made with the cook,—then they knew what they were in for. More of the cook later.

The whole party were equipped with either skis or snowshoes, and carried out their manoeuvres on these. The performances of various members of the party on these added a humorous touch to the proceedings.

The actual military training was completed on Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning, Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon being left free.

On Saturday evening, several of the troop made an attempt to become cheerful by going into Shawbridge Village, but failed to obtain the wherewithal at any of the village stores. We noticed that at this time the Signal Section went out with one accord to do "Lamp Work." Later on in the evening the boys and staff of the farm put up an entertainment consisting mainly of selections by their brass band. This organization is entirely composed of boys from the farm and has only been in working order for about a year, and is really good.

Sunday morning, the big affair of the week-end was staged. The C.O.T.C. picked on an excellent piece of ground right in the middle of the farm, and attacked the boys' rink, which was filled with them. The enemy in all the shows were held together by Mr. Erskine Buchanan, of the Royal Highlanders, who accompanied the party in the capacity of a buck private.

Great interest was shown by the boys in a Lewis Gun, which was taken down for training purposes. Mr. Leech gave a short talk on the subject, and then proceeded to take the gun to pieces amid a crowd of very interested small boys. He received much promotion at the hands of the boys, who called him everything up to General.

I said, more of the cook later. Mr. Harding was a cook to the officers' mess at Bramshott, and we are of the opinion that the Kaiser, instead of choosing London to have supper in, should have chosen that camp instead. His "piece re resistance" was a potato pie served for Sunday supper, which the whole platoon, headed by the C.S.M., did full justice to.

The Boys' Farm have issued a challenge to McGill to play it in any game that can be named, and to beat it up. They certainly are ambitious.

The troops left Shawbridge on Sunday evening amid the yells of 170 small boys who made enough noise for a thousand. The main question asked on the way home was, "When are we going again?"

FRENCH CLASS WILL PRESENT "LA CAGNOTTE"

Wallace Reid In "What's Your Hurry" At The Mount Royal

Wallace Reid is again the breezy auto racer in his latest screen comedy, "What's Your Hurry?" which runs at the Mount Royal Theatre ... day and ... nday. But the star doesn't stick to the racing car long in this new speed-picture. In order to win the lady of his heart, the daughter of the gruff old motor truck manufacturer, Wallie becomes an employee of his prospective father-in-law. But in this capacity he only succeeds in getting himself "in wrong," and it is not until he risks his life to pilot a fleet of trucks to the rescue of a countryside threatened by a bursting dam that Wallie is able to soften the old man's heart and capture the girl. Wallace Reid is delightful in this breezy picture and he is capably supported by Lois Wilson and others.

The new World Picture, "Miss Crusoe," starring Virginia Hammond, former leading lady of E. H. Sothern, with an all-star cast is the other feature. This is an exciting story of two women who go to spend a quiet vacation on a deserted island in the Chesapeake Bay and stumble on a nest of crooks. What follows is filled with thrills as well as some very good comedy situations. "Miss Crusoe" is a picture that no lover of film drama should miss. Coming Monday "Two Kinds of Love" with all-star cast.

New Arabian Nights

The Tale of Aladdin Rong and the Wonderful Lamp.

"Lo ye, my rebthren," quoth Inbad the Failer unto his comrades of the tribe of Eyen Yahr, as they smote together the balls of ivory in the game which is called Snukaful. "Lo ye, yonder smooth and polished fragment from the tusk of the lordly elephant giveth me to think upon a certain man whom I once knew, when as a sprightly youth I trod the halls of Ohal Magheel. Would ye that I should tell you the tale of him?"

"Yea, Inbad," creid they, and a clamour arose like unto the noise that sounds when the desert winds blow through the fronds of the rustling palm, and the mighty nuts fall earthward thick as hail. "Tell us of the tale, O Inbad!"

Then did the lordly Inbad recline upon a couch of soft leather from Morocco and gather about him his ancient coat of grey and rose-color, which he had ever by him. And he sent up from his lips great curls of the smoke of tobacco that is sweeter than hashish, and speaking forth what was in his mind he said:

"Long ago, O my brethren, when I, Inbad the Failer, was one of the tribe of the Soph Omar, and held myself a mighty man of cunning and resource, there was a youth whose name was Aladdin Rong. And of a truth, he was of the raec of the Feroshee, who are a foolish race and know no wisdom."

Then again there arose a noise and voices cried, "Yea, O Inbad, the Feroshee are witless ones, and of small worth withall." But certain of the race of Feroshee who were there present looked from one to the other, and great was their wonder, for verily they knew not in what small esteem they were held by the sons of Ohal Magheel. And Inbad the Failer spoke on and said—

"This Aladdin Rong was a marked one, even amongst his fellows of the Feroshee, for he acted ever after the manner of Boh Nehd, which is one of the sons of Mut. Was he allowed to take a part in the sacred dance that is danced within the hall of Thin N'yin? Behold, he whirled about like the dervishes until he grew giddy therewith and foamed at the mouth. When there was a meeting of the sons of Ohal Magheel, and the time came for those of ripe years, even graybeards and men scarred in war, to have their say, this Aladdin Rong was ever ready to spring up and talk foolishness, which indeed is night and day upon the lips of the Feroshee. So it was that by many he was looked at askance, and the trieb of the Soph Omar swore a mighty oath, even such oaths as are sworn by the students of Mehd, who dwell high up on the hill — they swore, I say, that not long should Aladdin Rong act in such wise and bring into evil odour the name of Ohal Magheel. But who were they to know the purpose of Allah? Justice was done by his will, but not through their hand.

For as the seasons came and went, the cold winter was falen upon the city of Muntri Ahl and everywhere there was ice and snow. And Aladdin Rong with his fellows used to fare forth of an afternoon and disport him on the smooth sheet of ice that lies in the hollow hard by the gates of Ohal Magheel, gliding upon the surface shod with steel and making strange and uncouth noises. Then would the daughters of Arvesie gather them together by the side of the ice and watch Aladdin and his friends.

And there might you hear one say to her neighbor, "Lo, yet another! Behold, this year the halls of Ohal Maghee are asl the vale of Sharon, which is the freshest and greenest of all we wot of."

But all the while those of the tribe of Feroehee, the foolish one, would rush furiously about and cry aloud to one another, with many strange movements of their arms. And anon one would slip and fall and upon his back he would slide many feet, while the daughters of Arvesie would smile and say, "Yonder is a fol'ower of the Prophet! He wipeth clean the ice for our feet."

Now it so befel that the folk of the great and powerful tribe of Wy prepared a mighty feast for the sons of Ohal Magheel, and before the banquet they purposed that all they bade thereto should hie them to the ice and pass about in order to the strains of sweet music. And this music a stranger from afar off, one of the tribe of Wop (Toni was his name) dispensed in fair wise for a fee.

And behold all the sons of Magheel hasted them to the feast and chose partners for the sport from amongst the daughters of Arvesie, whichsoever were fairest and smiled in brightest wise. Yet the men of the ancient family of Syen Yahr and those of the clan Dja Nyar would seek in cunning wise ere they chose them partners for the banquet, and inquire thus diligently among their fellows, "Lo, this houri in the green turban, with eyes like the gazelle, where is her home and where dwell her parents? Do it belike in the tnets of the north or of the west? But Allah perfered that she should hail from the southern shore of the great river Larrens, for then I shall have none of her."

Howbeit the tribe of the Feroshee, as is their wont, did moet eagerly seize upon those of the daughters of Arvesie who smiled sweetest. And it chanced that th eones who smiled the longest and sweetest were even those who dwelt afar off, even on the southern shore of the great river Larrens. Thus doth Allah devise destruction for the froward heads, the unruly ones, the tribe of the Feroshee who are witless.

And lo! this Aladdin Rong of whom I tell same eagerly unto the banquet and the sport and entered the hall to choose him a partner. Anon he fled forth as one distraught with joy and beholding one of his friends of the family of the Soph Omar spoke forth and said,

"See, oh my friend, see what a one am I? Of a truth Allah is good! I have prospered exceedingly in the choosing of partners, and have got one a Wonderful Vamp!"

JUNIORS PLAY TIE GAME SECOND TIME

Hard Fight Ends in Even Score on Saturday.

TEAM SHOWS UP WELL.

Moran, Lynch, McGibbon and Price Played Great Game For McGill.

Playing their second Junior League fixture of the season, McGill added another tie score to their record when they held the Loyola team to a 2-2 reckoning. The game was fast and hard-fought from the opening period until the gong announced the end of the game.

Loyola gained the advantage at the face-off, but failed to make good, and shot wide. The play stayed around centre ice for a few minutes, then Lynch shot square on the Loyola goal, but Altimus turned the puck aside. The Loyola net guardian showed up well all through the contest and was the means of keeping the McGill score at such a low level. For a while McGill was having the better of the play, but failed to pass when close in, throwing away many chances of netting the disc.

Whalen put Loyola on the score sheet about half way through the period, shooting the puck past Moran from a shot close in. Lynch, Price and McKindsley, of McGill, were replaced by McMahon, McGibbon and Mitchell. Shortly after his appearance, McGibbon tallied for the Red and White, making the score one all, where it remained till half-time.

The second half opened with McGibbon in Price's place on the McGill team. Shortly after the start, Lynch pushed the rubbed past the Loyola goal tender putting McGill in the lead. However, this lead was maintained only for a short time, as Leonny, of Loyola, scored after one of his spectacular rushes, tying the score. Leonny played in stellar fashion throughout the game and was undoubtedly the best man on the ice. The bell rang for full time with both sextettes trying hard to gain the winning counter, but despite their efforts to score, the game ended with the score sheet showing 2-2.

For McGill, Price, Lynch, McGibbon and Moran, in goal, showed up well; while for Loyola, Leonny and Whalen and Altimus, particularly the first mentioned, were noticeable for their steady checking and skating

HOW REPORTERS GOT THE BALLOON STORY AWAY FROM DANIELS

To "scoop" Secretary Josephus Daniels on the story of Hinton, Kloor and Farrell; in other words, to get the story of the "lost" balloonists into the newspapers before the United States Navy Department got it at Washington—such was the task of twoscore United States and Canadian reporters who swooped down upon the amazed natives of Cochrane, Mattice and Clute, says the Ottawa Journal.

New York reporters are reputed to be daring and resourceful. The writer, eight years ago, saw them smash police restrictions when, on the occasion of the arrival of the Carpathia with the survivors of the Titantic, they strung telegraph wires into the homes of the rescued and got their interviews and "stories" by such means; saw them a few years later charter a large steamer in Quebec to go out and meet the cruiser Essex returning with the victims of the Empress of Ireland disaster, and witnessed them break through police lines in the Halifax catastrophe disguised as workers for the Red Cross. On none of these occasions, however, did the New Yorkers display quite the same ingenuity, resources and disregard for expenditure as when on the trail of the balloonists.

They entered Cochrane equipped for any emergency. They came on a special car, with their own chef, with all kinds of provisions, with dozens of typewriters, stationery, books, magazines, confectionery, and even a gramophone, with the latest Indian songs. As for clothing, neither Peary, Stefansson nor Amundsen were ever better prepared for the rigors of the Arctic zone.

The little Hudson Bay post at Mattice was swept clean of snowshoes, shoepacks, moccasins, blankets and Mackinaw coats; Cochrane merchants experienced a similar windfall, and prices, responding to the law of supply and demand, simply soared.

Two Likely Trails.

Cochrane, for the first few days, became the G. H. Q. of the crowd. Scouts were sent out on the trail, going out as far as fifteen miles, but the little northern town, immensely pleased at the thought of being "put on the map," was the base.

There were two trails by which the balloonists might come—Clute and Mattice. The trappers and Indians in the neighborhood were divided in their opinions, some favoring Mattice and others Clute; and it was therefort found necessary to guard both trails. This was done by sending out Indian runners from both Mattice and Clute. The Redmen were under contract—at a figure that to them must have seemed fabulous—to go out and intercept the balloonists and beat them back to the telegraph station by eight hours. Thus, the correspondents figured, they would be afforded ample time to get to the aviators before the messages of Secretary Daniels commanding them not to talk.

Mattice, of course, was a hundred miles away, but an engine stood by night and day under steam, prepared to take the party there within three hours. Two correspondents out of the two dozen broke from the others and decided to play a lone hand—Clermont of The New York American and Crossland of The New York Tribune. Clermont, with two Indians, ten dogs and two toboggans, started out on the Mattice trail, while Crossland, with similar equipment, went out from Clute. Their hope was to meet the aviators fifty or sixty miles out, get their story and make a dash back with the news ahead of all the others.

Had Hard Luck.

Both men had the worst of bad luck. Crossland, who had never been on snowshoes before, but who insisted on breaking the trail, stumbled on his first day out and was badly bitten by one of the huskies. He had to camp for a day, but finally pushed on more than fifty miles, only to learn from a runner sent out after him that he had taken the wrong trail, and that the aviators were coming into Mattice—100 miles away. This meant that his lone card had been played, and that he had lost, for it was impossible to get back to Mattice in time. He was game, however, sending back this message to the more lucky ones at Mattice:

"You were right and I have lost. Good luck with your story. Hope we'll meet soon again, with different success."

Crossland had expended several hundreds of dollars for his paper, but, through a combination of bad luck, was completely "scooped" on the story.

Met the Aviators.

Nor did Clermont, who pushed on nearly ninety miles, fare much better. He met the aviators, camped with them overnight, got their story, began his dash back with it, but could not stand the pace. His feet, unused to snowshoes, blistered and bled, he suffered intensely from the cold, and his progress slowed down to not more than fourteen miles a day. On the other hand, the Indian runners sent out by the other correspondents, and who met the balloonists the morning after Clermont did, came back like the wind. They even dropped pieces of tallow and cheese along the trail to slow up Clermont's dogs, and arrived in Mattice nearly eight hours ahead of him. Clermont, in fact, could only make Mattice six hours ahead of the balloonists, and not in time to pull off his "scoop," and then fell into the worst kind of hard luck by going on to Cochrane and missing the Farrell-Hinton fight, the best part of the story.

Getting Farrell.

Despite the warning of the Indian runners, the balloonists, who arrived two hours before expected, took the reporters unawares; and before a hundred words could be got out of Hinton and Kloor they had received and read Daniels' message, enjoining silence. Fortunately, however, Farrell was a half hour behind the others, and a detachment (of the reporters) was sent out to cut him off from the main force—and Daniels' message—while others remained behind to take care of Kloor and Hinton. Farrell proved easier than the most sanguine hoped for, and the inducement of a cup of hot tea readily lured him into a shack—and into the arms of the newspapermen—about a mile out on the trail.

Here Edward Klauber of The New York Times, who was elected spokesman for the journalists, put Farrell through a grueling cross-examination, taking him from Rockaway to Moose Factory and back to Mattice, and finally producing the Hinton letters, which later caused such a row. It was just as Farrell had concluded his story that Hinton entered the shack with Daniels' message, getting a punch on the jaw for his pains.

Getting Out the News.

It was one thing to get the story; another thing to get it out. There are only two wires out of Mattice, one via Winnipeg and the other via Quebec; and two wires are of mighty little consequence in carrying 75,00 words within the space of a few hours. The question, therefore, arose as to which reporter of the two dozen should have a first go at the wires. After some hot debate it was decided that the fairest way would be to have a deal of the cards, with the man drawing the lowest card getting first turn at the wire, and the man drawing the highest getting the last, those in between coming in order, according to the card they drew, and each man filing 500 words at a time. In this way everybody got a bit of a chance; at 3 o'clock the following morning four operators, handling two wires, had sent out 50,000 words; six hours later the New York business man could read the story at his breakfast, and the next day could go and see the whole episode reproduced at his favorite movie theatre.

R.V.C. BEAT "Y" AT BASKETBALL

Commanding Lead in First Half Gave R. V. C. Easy Game.

In a match at the High School gymnasium, Saturday afternoon, the R.V.C. basketball team defeated the Y.W.C.A. team, the score being 36-16.

During the first half, the play was energetic and there were unusually few fouls. The Y.W.C.A. forwards tried often to score, but they were not at home at the basket. At the end of the period the score was 32-6.

Both teams went to pieces in the second half, and the team work was poor. The Y.W.C.A. team hedr R. V. C. down, but they could not overcome their opponents' lead. They showed a marked improvement since last year.

The line-up was as follows:

Y.W.C.A.		McGill
Miss McGilton	forward	Z. Slack
Miss Abraham	forward	M. Leggatt
Miss Donnelly	centre	J. Spier
———	centre	M. Pick
Miss N. Rooke	guard	G. Shlackman
Miss Thompson	guard	K. Gillespie

Spares—Y.W.C.A.: Miss McCow, Miss C. Rooke. McGill: Miss M. Fry, Miss D. Russell.

R.V.C. BIBLE CLASS.

Dr. Gordon's Bible Class will meet as usual at 5.15 p.m. in Room 106. As Dr. Gordon has gone to no little trouble to spare us an hour a week of his most valuable time, it is only fair that every girl who signed up for this class should do her level best to attend as regularly as possible. If, on account of difficulty in obtaining a convenient hour, this class comes for you at the end of a long "Blue Monday," it is no less a "Blue Monday" for Dr. Gordon, who comes prepared to give a delightful hour to twenty, not ten, girls.

THEOLOGS PLAY TIE GAME.

The residents of the Presbyterian and Congregational Colleges played an exhibition game of hockey on Saturday which resulted in a tie, the score being 3-3. The score indicates accurately the relative merits of each team. The Presbyterians, however, were without the services of their best man, McGerrigle. Dempsey, for the Presbyterians, played the most spectacular game of the afternoon, he scoring all the goals for his team, two on individual end to end rushes, and the other on a long shot from centre ice. For the Congregationals, both Craik and Badger did excellent work. A large crowd of enthusiastic supporters of both teams witnessed the match.
